-Fort Pulaski is now rebuilding, under the superintendence of the United States Engineer Corps. Thirty-five men are building up the water battery, and when the work is completed Your 10-inch and two 15-inch guns will be mounted. This armament, it is stated, will contain the heaviest ordnance ever placed at Fort Pulaski.

-The Norfolk, Va., Journal has been informed by a gentleman of the county that he worked forty-three negro men up till 1863, since which time fifteen have died. Of twentyfour negro women formerly owned by him, not one has now a child alive. That journal hears similar reports of the decadence of the race from every quarter.

General Forrest has made arrangements to secure, within the next two months, a thousand Chinese as laborers upon a Southern railroad which he has contracted to make. Au agency has been established in St. Louis for supplying, at the shortest notice, whatever number of Chinese may be called for from any part of the country, and that agency has already ordered 50,000. A grand enterprise for the introduction of Chinese to be employed upon the plantations of the South has been vigorously inaugurated at Memphis.

—The London Spectator, in all seriousness and with remarkable courage, proposes to have Archbishop Manning made a poec. It thous that there is this in favor of its recommendation, that he has no children, and there is and we shall not cease to agitate the sub feeling and opinion in the higher branch of the Legislature. Seventeen years ago Cardinal Wiseman was hardly safe in the streets of London; to-day it is earnestly proposed by a grave journal to raise his successor to a grade of the highest honor within the gift of the crown.

Truly, the age is progressive. -The New York Herald's money article, o Saturday, says: "Southern securities were heavy and lower, the weakness being most perceptible in the New North Carolinas, which centinuing their downward movement, sold at 45. The exceptions were the Tennessees. which were steady, and the South Carolinas which were stronger. Prices closed on the street as follows: Tennessee, ex coupon, 61a 614; do new, 57a574; Virginia, ex coupon, 57a 571; do. new, 60161; Georgia sixes, 83a86; do. sevens, 93a934; North Carolina, ex coupon, 54a 541; do. new, 44:45; Missouri sixes, 872871; Louisiana sixes, 68a70; do. 'levce sixes, 67 at 8; de, do. eights, 83.85; Alabama eights, 92.94; do. fives, 60a63; South Carolina sixes, 68a70;

do. new. 65a67. -The extraordinary rapidity with which iron-clad after iron-clad has been built and launched in the Prussian ports, and the scarcely disguised pretensions of the Prussian Government to the supremacy of the Baltic Sa, have created no little jealousy and anxiety in Russia. Last year, at the suggestion of Count Bismurck, the Prussian and Russian fleets cruised and manouvred together during the summer months; but a proposal to renew the same exercises this year has met at St. Petersburg with an unqualified refusal. This incident has caused much sensation in Russian naval circles, the general impression being that the government is aware of the present superiority of the Prussian navy, and unwilling to let their fleet serve as a foil to that of their active and enterprising neighbor.

-Eight street car conductors were arrested in St. Louis the other day, on the charge of stealing their employer's funds. The Democrat says : "Places were found where conductors had sold packages of single tickets, twenty-five and thirty for one dollar, and the modu operandi of gathering these tickets together was also learned. On the Missouri and Citizens' roads the conductors have little spears upon which they are ordered to stick the tickets when passed to them by passengers, and this cancels them. Instead of placing them on this spear they make believe to do so, then slyly slip the little bits of paper into their pockets without the hole in it which renders it worthless. On the Fourth-street (People's) road, the conductors have a punch, and by failing to 'prnch' a ticket the same dishonest sim is reached."

-A ghastly joke is reported from New Orleans: A young doctor of that city paid his addresses to a lady, who, among other curiosities in her parlor, had a human skull, to which the physician took a wonderful fancy and repeatedly solicited her for it. Some mornings since, he was agreeably surprised by receiving from his young lady friend ; beautiful looking pudding, with her compliments. He sent it st once to his room-mate. an anothecary, with instructions to have it for dinner that day. A friend dropping in at mealtime was invited to dine, and accepted, in consideration of the fine pudding which was prom ised. After the meat dinner the puddingwhich appeared a very chef d'œuvre-was brought on and the trio united in praise of its once. Indeed they one and all asserted that there was a peculiarly agreeable flavor about it, which one thought lemon, another vanilla. The doctor insisted on replenishing the saucers of his friends, and was about to help himself a second time, when he struck | mortal Bunsby.

THE DAILY NEWS. | with the knife a hard substance. Pushing his explorations further, he fished up, to his horror, a grinning skull, the very skull he had so often vainly importuned his lady friend to RIGRDAN, DAWSON & CO., give him. That dinner party adjourned with wonderful rapidity, and with frightful exclamations.

-The original manuscript of Edgar A. Poe's story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," is in the possession of Lieutenant J. M Johnston, of Lancaster, Pa. The story is written in the 'fine print-like hand" for which the poet was famous, on large sheets of heavy unruled foolscap paper. It seems to us that DAILY NEWS, three months...... 2 06 the copy must have been re-written very carefully for the printer by Poe, as all the punctua-TRI-WEEKLY NEWS, six months...... 2 00 tion marks, capital letters, italicised words and paragraphs, are carefully designated, which could hardly be the case in the first writing of a story by any author, especially a story evincing so much thoughtful analysis as "The Murders in the Rue Morgue." There are sixteen and a half closely written pages of the manuscript. The third page does not contain a single erasure or interlineation, whilst the other pages contain comparatively few, and those are principally where the writer has abbreviated or altered his method of expressing an idea by substituting a short for a long sentence, or by striking out some words in a sentence as surplusage. It also appears that the author has carefully read over the manuscript, even after transcribing it, and in some instances has substituted a different word for the one first written, and in a few places he has on the magin of the pages-purposely left wide-interpolated sentences. Every word in the manuscript is spelled correctly, and written so plainly that the dullest typographer would have no difficulty in deciphering the copy.

CHARLESTON.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 13, 1869.

Coming to the Point.

It is evident now that the long cotton and rice planters are of one mind in their determination to take Chinamen as their principal laborers. This is settled, and we agree with our correspondent, Planter, that we must come to the point and find out how these Chinamen are to be obtained.

There is at present no regular agency in the East, of which we know, where contracts may be made for Chinese laborers at a given rate. In Tennessee and the Mississipi States, however, the planters are getting the matter into shape, and it is probable that at the Memphis Convention, which meets to-day, some precise information will be furnished. We have ourselves taken steps with a view to obtaining trustworthy reports as to cost of shipment. the time required to complete engagements, and other collateral matters, and we hope to be able ere long to give our readers full and definite particulars for their guidance. All the information that we receive, either through the public press or private channels, will at once be made public in our columns. We may add that we shall be pleased at all times to receive and consider suggestions upon the important question of Chinese immigration.

A number of planters have already written to say that they will take Chinese if they can get them; and we have no donbt that a thousand of these laborers could be placed in a few weeks. THE NEWS WAS the deat paper to advocate holdly the use of Chinese labor in our low-country, need of an authorized exponent of Catholic ject until every planter has actually obtained as many Chinese as he requires.

The Future of Charleston.

The Philadelphia North An the folly of a Western paper, which, while foreseeing that the recovered prosperity of the South must lead to the building up of great cities on the Southern seaboard. makes the strange mistake of pointing out Beaufort, S. C., Brunswick, Ga., Darlen, Ga', and St. Mary's, Ga., as destined to be to the South what Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore are to the great North. The North American remarks:

"The focal points of Southern population, industry and commerce on the seaboard are already so conspicuous that it is extremely odd for any one to make a mistake about the matter. These points are Norfolk, Charleston and Savannah. No other positions on the Southern seaboard can compare with these for natural advantages. Charleston, in the heart of the sea island cotton district, the richest in the South, and with railway communication extending through the whole central South, is sure to become a great city. "These are the points in that region to which the enterprise and capital of the Northern seaboard are now directed, and the greatness of any other places there can be but a dream. The cotton factories of the Southern interior naturally connect with Savannah and Charleston. Formerly those cities depended in too large a degree upon their natural command of the great Southern staples, cotton tobacco, rice and naval stores; but now the are wide awake to the need of industry and enterprise. Their railroad communications extend westward to the Mississippi River. Bociety, wealth, education and business at the South all tend as naturally to these centres on the seaboard as the same elements in the North do to the great cities above named."

The North American concludes this bright but not overdrawn picture of our prospects with a magnanimous disavowal of any wish to repress the growth of the Southern cities. This it accompanies with the generous and disinterested counsel that we should incontinently abandon "the dream "of direct trade with Europe" and confine our efforts to the cultivation of close com mercial relations with those "great indus-"trial centres," whereof the City of Brotherly Love is the chief

The Chinese Passie.

It is amusing to watch the quandary into which the Radicals have been thrown by the suddenness with which Chinese immigration has foomed up as a national question. Even the New York Tribune, which is usually ready enough to take sides, confesses itself staggered by the problem. It has been turning it over for some weeks. but has got no further towards unriddling it than this:

"While we have given some time and though to the problem of Chinese immigration, we have not attained a flux solution, and have no opinion respecting at that we seak to impose on others. It may be that further knowledge and consideration will induce us to unite in the demand that this imm gration be stopped though our present leaning is adverse to this." This would not be unworthy of the im-
